Interests

At the Institute of Marine Science, National Research Council (CNR ISMAR Venice) since 1992, as research scientist from 1999, now with permanent position. He has done research work for more than 25 years in biological oceanography of pelagic, coastal and lagoon environments.

Main research interest: phytoplankton ecology (phenology, role in the trophic web) in transitional and marine environments. He particularly took experience in field and laboratory investigations as well as on board of main Italian research vessels (about 30 Scientific Cruises, 14 times as Chief Scientist) in Adriatic Sea. His research activity on phytoplankton ecology has developed in the frame of different projects in the Adriatic Sea and in the lagoon of Venice.

Present research activity: long-term ecological series.

Activity:

- 2018 - External Supervisor on PhD affiliate to Stazione Zoologica Anton Dohrn (Director of Studies: Raffaella Casotti), Open University, XIX, 2017-2018; project: Short-term responses of marine bacteria and phytoplankton to disturbance in marine coastal areas by automated high-frequency flow cytometry. PhD. Alexandre Epinoux.
- 2010 - Mediterranean Geographic Intercalibration Group - Referent for Italy EQB phytoplankton. Intercalibration of classification criteria at the Mediterranean Ecoregion scale MED GIG (Mediterranean Geographic Intercalibration Group).
- 1995-2018 - Research projects, directives or networks in which he participated as phytoplankton expert, responsible for the operational unit, oceanographic data management: Italian Long-Term Ecological research network (LTER-Italy), RITMARE-SOLVE, MARINE STRATEGY 08/56/CE, BALMAS, VECTOR, WFD 2000/60 CE, ICSEL, INTERREG II, III, CBC Phare Italia-Slovenia, CE LIFE-WATERS, PRISMA and others local projects.
- 2017-2018 - Dissemination activities: World Ocean Day, Cammini LTER

Publications

He wrote about 70 papers between refereed journals (37 of which on ISI) and refereed book chapters. About 600 citations on ISI web of science; H factor: 15.
